RELATIONSHIPS AND SEX EDUCATION POLICY

Statutory Requirements and Catholic Church Education Guidance

The Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education, and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 are made under sections 34 and 35 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017 and provide that pupils receiving primary education must be taught Relationships Education, pupils receiving secondary education must be taught RSE and that all primary and secondary pupils must be taught Health Education. The new subjects of Relationships Education and RSE must be taught in all schools. To give effect to the duty in section 34 of the 2017 Act and the power in section 35 of that Act, the Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 amend existing provisions in the Education Act 1996 and the Education Act 2002 and insert new provisions into the Education (Pupil Referral Units) (Application of Enactments) (England) Regulations 2007, the Education (Independent School Standards) Regulations 2014 and the Non-Maintained Special Schools (England) Regulations 2015. The new provisions include a requirement for the Secretary of State to publish guidance on Relationships Education, RSE, and Health Education; require schools to have regard to that guidance; require schools to make a statement of policy on their provision of Relationships Education and RSE; and set out the circumstances in which a pupil is to be excused from RSE. As an Independent School the guidance in relation to Health Education is met under PSHE Education (Independent Schools Standards) Regulations 2014.

As the Vatican Congregation for Catholic Education reminds us:

“.....Sexuality is a fundamental component of personality, one of its modes of being, of manifestation, of communicating with others, of feeling, of expressing and of living human love. Therefore, it is an integral part of the education process.

“.... Children and young people should be helped to develop harmoniously their physical, moral and intellectual qualities... they should receive a positive and prudent education in matters relating to sex... And young people have the right to be stimulated to make sound moral judgements based on well-formed conscience and to put them into practice with a sense of personal commitment...”

Gravissimum Educationis (Para 32) - Second Vatican Council

This is particularly important for a boarding school, where the school seeks to complement and support the training already given by home and family.

Aims

The aim of RSE at Woldingham is to give students the information they need to help them develop healthy, nurturing relationships of all kinds, not just intimate relationships. It will enable them to know what a healthy relationship looks like and what makes a good friend, colleague and a successful marriage or other type of committed relationship. This will help students understand the positive effects that good relationships have on their mental wellbeing, identify when relationships are not right and understand how such situations can be managed. It should be read in conjunction with the Goals and Criteria of the Sacred Heart and the School's policy document on PSHE.

Effective RSE does not encourage early sexual experimentation. It teaches young people to understand human sexuality and to respect themselves and others. It enables young people to mature, build their confidence and self-esteem and understand the reasons for delaying sexual activity. Effective RSE will also support them throughout life, to develop safe, fulfilling and healthy sexual relationships, at the appropriate time.

Woldingham School therefore aims to provide students with the opportunities to:

- Gain a full knowledge and understanding to accept their own and other's physical and emotional development and sexuality;
- Help them develop a moral framework within which they can make informed and responsible decisions about their relationships and sexual behaviour;
- Enjoy relationships based on mutual respect, dignity and responsibility;
- Appreciate the value of a stable family life, marriage and the responsibilities of parenthood.

Objectives

We consider that great care will be taken to match the RSE provided to the maturity of the students involved, which may not always correspond to their chronological age. Therefore, we ensure whole year-group sessions are followed up with discussion in smaller groups and where required, one-to-ones. Differentiation is expected in all lessons at Woldingham and RSE is no exception.

RSE will encompass, in addition to the facts about human reproduction processes and behaviour, consideration of the broader emotional and ethical dimensions of sexual attitudes. In dealing with sensitive issues, such as contraception, Sexually Transmitted Infection (including HIV) and abortion, the teacher will aim to offer balanced and factual information and to acknowledge the major moral and ethical issues alive in the world today.

Contents headings for relationships and sex education

- Families- including different types of committed stable relationships such as marriage and other long- term relationships.
- The roles and responsibilities of parents
- Recognition of unhealthy relationships and how to seek help or report concerns (including sexual harassment and sexual violence)
- Characteristics of positive and healthy friendships- management of conflict and reconciliation
- Stereotypes, in particular ones based on gender, sex, race, religion, sexual orientation, age or disability and how they can cause damage.

- Respect and tolerance of others
- Bullying, including cyberbullying
- Equality Act- legal rights and responsibilities with reference to protected characteristics as defined in Equality Act 2010
- Online and Media- expectations of behaviour; risks and staying safe online; the impact of viewing harmful content; sending 'nudes' or sexually explicit messages; the damage pornography can have on relationships; the impact of unhealthy or obsessive comparisons online (including body image); risks of gambling; how to identify harmful behaviour online.
- The concepts and laws relating to sexual consent, sexual exploitation and abuse (including, for example, grooming, rape, domestic abuse, forced marriage, FGM) and how these can affect current and future relationships.
- Intimate sexual relationships: how to recognise positive aspects of intimate relationships including mutual respect, consent, loyalty, trust, shared interests, sex and friendship.
- The changing adolescent body- puberty facts for males and females and menstrual wellbeing; how physical and mental changes can happen simultaneously.
- Reproductive health including facts about menstruation, menopause, fertility and the impact of lifestyle on fertility.
- How all aspects of health can be affected by choices made in relationships e.g. physical, emotional, mental, sexual and reproductive health and wellbeing.
- Contraception, including options available and where to get advice.
- Pregnancy, including miscarriage and the choices available; medically and legally accurate, impartial information on all options, including abortion, adoption and keeping a baby.
- Sexually Transmitted Infections: transmission, safer sex (including condom use) and the importance of and facts about testing. This must include HIV/AIDS information.
- Mental wellbeing: how to recognise and talk about emotions and how to recognise early signs of mental wellbeing concerns; information about common types of mental illness and the benefits of physical exercise and time outdoors; how voluntary work can have a positive effect on mental wellbeing and happiness.

Organisation of relationships and sex education

A coherent Relationships and Sex Education Programme is taught as part of the formal curriculum in both timetabled Wellbeing (PSHE) lessons and using a cross-curricular approach. The result is a well-planned yet adaptable, integrated, progressive response to the needs of the students at each age and stage and responding sensitively to their experiences or to items in the news or in society generally.

Education in personal relationships and sexuality cannot always be confined to a taught programme. Students learn above all from the relationships and attitudes they experience and that are modelled in their lives at school and elsewhere, whether those are planned aspects of the programme or not. They also learn thorough co-curricular activities. At Woldingham, all members of our community reflect and communicate the Church's understanding of the dignity of the human person, the importance of human freedom; of the common good and a proper understanding of conscience. These values are also reflected in our adherence to the Human Rights Act, 1998, in accordance with our Safeguarding Policy.

Specific issue statements and sensitive issues

We are a Catholic school committed to Christian values. However, we recognise the importance of an approach which takes account of differing perspectives in a culturally diverse society.

Sexual health and HIV

An essential part of personal development is the promotion and maintenance of sexual health. Students need accurate information about sexually transmitted infections, including HIV, and of its personal and physiological consequences, including the advances made in medicine that have made such a difference to those infected with the virus, despite which, in the absence of a cure, prevention is a key element in halting its spread. While the Church offers us a vision of human sexuality within the context of faithful relationships, we are also part of a wider society where there is a plurality of values, including within the families of our students. The widespread advocacy of so-called 'safer-sex', both in personal behaviour and public policies, will be critically discussed, so that all risks involved in sexual activity are clearly understood.

Contraception

The purpose and main methods of contraception are explained as part of the Health Education, PSHE and Science courses, as well as information as to where discreet contraception advice for individuals is available, both in and out of school. Moral and ethical issues concerning contraception are discussed as part of the Theology syllabus. Whilst we recognise that the teaching of other Christian churches differs from our own and that this is a matter for personal conscience, discussion about the use of contraception will be placed within the context of the Roman Catholic Church.

Abortion

The topic of abortion is covered as part of the Theology syllabus and during timetabled PSHE lessons. Living in a society where abortion is legal, it is important that all viewpoints are discussed openly.

Diversity and inclusion

We recognize that the RSE policy must be sensitive to the range of religious and cultural views about sexual behaviours whilst ensuring that students have the access to the learning they need to stay healthy, safe and to understand their rights as an individual. The policy also covers the concept of equality and the legislation relating to it. RSE fosters LGBTQ+ equality, challenging all forms of discrimination and bullying. It is always respectful of how students choose to identify themselves, understanding that their sexual orientation and gender identity maybe 'emerging'.

Attitudes to Homosexuality are part of the Ethics section of the Year 9 Theology curriculum. Same sex relationships also appear as part of the PSHE Programme and discussions also take place, as questions on the topic arise in subjects such as in Theology, the study of literature and current affairs, among many other school subjects. The Christian approach is to condemn all forms of prejudice and intolerance, including homophobia. (Catechism of the Catholic Church 2358).

Sex and gender

As a response to some entrenched and other rapidly changing socio-cultural norms about gender roles that they are exposed to, we encourage our students to explore the concepts of biological sex and cultural gender. In age-appropriate ways, we seek to present the category of 'woman' as an infinitely adaptable set of human beings, so they are empowered to individually and deliberately resist or adopt as many or as few of society's current ideas of what being a woman can include, as they need. We include discussion of gender transition within this framework.

Safeguarding and confidentiality

Staff will respond to questions in class in an open and factual way. If students ask to confide in a member of staff, we recognise that it may not be in the student's best interests for a member of staff to promise confidentiality and students are always encouraged to discuss the matter with their parents. However, a student may not always feel able to do this and confidential advice is available from the School Doctor. Teachers are aware that effective RSE, which brings an understanding of what is and is not appropriate in a relationship, can lead to a disclosure of a safeguarding issue- all staff should follow school procedures and contact the DSL if required. The school's designated safeguarding lead and SENDCo will be consulted before RSE lessons to identify any pupils who may need additional support during this time.

Working with parents

We are committed to working with parents and carers to ensure the best educational experience for their daughters. During the development and review of this policy, parents and carers will be consulted; feedback will be invited on this policy, as we welcome comments and questions from parents. This policy is posted on the school website and as such parents and carers are always warmly invited to contact the school directly with any queries or concerns.

Copies of this document and any associated schemes of work are available to parents on request. In accordance with Section 17A of the Education Act 1988 inserted by section 241 (2) of the Education Act 1993:

"If a parent of any learner requests that he/she may be wholly or partly excused from receiving sex education at the school, the learner shall, except in so far as such education comprised in the National Curriculum, be excused accordingly until the request is withdrawn".

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from all or part of the sex education provided at the school, except for those parts included in the statutory National Curriculum Science.

The dates of consultation are detailed on the front page of this document. Should parents wish to see example resources that the school will be using for RSE lessons, please request these via the school office.

National curriculum science

KEY STAGE 3

1. That fertilisation in humans is the fusion of a male and female cell.

2. About the physical and emotional changes that take place during adolescence.
3. About the human reproductive system, including the menstrual cycle and fertilisation.
4. How a foetus develops in the uterus.

KEY STAGE 4

1. The way in which hormonal control occurs, including the effects of sex hormones.
2. How sex is determined in humans.

All of the above are statutory requirements and children may not be withdrawn from these lessons.

Dissemination of the policy

The policy will be distributed to all members of staff involved in the teaching of Relationships and Sex Education. It will be circulated to the Senior Leadership Team. Copies are published on the school website and available for parents.

Quality assurance policy

The policy will be reviewed by those involved in the teaching of sex education and in the event of there being changes in:

- Government guidelines.
- Education Law.
- Whole School Policy.

Feedback is sought annually from staff and students and information collated and informs future planning of the Thrive Programme.

This policy is reviewed also by the Governing body who are aware of their responsibilities.
